Thirty-Fourth Annual Meeting This Week at

BEDFORD SPRINGS HOTEL

Druggists Hold Eight Sessions and Discuss Many Topics of Interest and Importance.

The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association was held at Bedford Springs Hotel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The meeting surpassed any held here in the past, about 450 members, their wives and children being present. Charles R. Rhodes of Hyndman is a member of the Committee on Nominations and Adam B. Heckerman of Port Royal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Heckerman, of this place, is a member of the Papers and Queries Committee, also the Committee on President's Address. The next meeting will be held at Buena Vista Springs, Pa.

Tuesday forenoon's session was taken up with the opening address by President La Wall, the reading of communications, reports of Treasurer, Secretary and Executive Committee, reception of delegates and the report of delegates to other state associations, the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the National Association of Retail Druggists. The afternoon session was occupied by numerous committee reports.

Tuesday evening's session was opened by Rev. J. Albert Byler, pastor of St. John's Reformed Church, Bedford. The address of welcome was delivered by Hon. J. C. McVannara of the Bedford Bar, and the responses were made by Mr. H. C. Deming and Mrs. W. Estelle Lee. An address by Dr. M. McMurtree, President of the Traveling Men's Auxiliary, and the Annual Address by the President, Charles H. La Wall, together with the appointment of committees completed the evening's program.

At Wednesday morning's session the reports of the committees on adulteration and legislation called forth lively discussion. Additional committee reports occupied the afternoon session and the evening was taken up with a masquerade ball.

Yesterday forenoon the report of the Committee on Revision of By-Laws and the Committee on Original Laws occupied the session. In the afternoon session was devoted to the work of the Committee on Papers and Queries.

Last evening the prize for the best paper presented at the meeting was awarded and the newly-elected officers were installed.

Birthday Party

A prettily appointed children's party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davidson Tuesday evening, it being the sixth birthday anniversary of their little daughter Elizabeth. The dining room was beautifully decorated in green and white. The color scheme was carried out in the refreshments which were served to the little guests who numbered thirty-five.

Following the party, dinner was served to the assistants who were Misses May Hartley, Bess V. Corie, Mary L. Willoughby, Mrs. W. G. Rook, Mrs. Amanda Cleaver, Mrs. Rudolf Wolf, Mrs. Harvey Davidson, Mrs. H. C. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Davidson.

James O. Adams of Hyndman and Miss Edna Gaumer of Williams were united in marriage Thursday morning, June 22, at the parsonage of the United Evangelical Church in Hyndman, by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Wise. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for Apollo to spend a few days with relatives. Upon their return they will reside in Hyndman. Mr. Adams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. ### Dr. Isaac Blackburn

Dr. Isaac Blackburn, pathologist of the Government Hospital for the Insane at Washington, D. C., died in his home city on Monday of this week and was brought to Pleasantville on Wednesday for burial in the cemetery at that place. Though he had never fully recovered from an attack of blood poisoning, which occurred about a year ago, he did not become critically ill until within the past three weeks.

Dr. Blackburn was born near New Paris and was one of Bedford County's most distinguished sons. In professional circles he enjoyed an international reputation as a pathologist, his specialty being brain anatomy. In the books and publications of which he is the author many of the illustrations were the work of his own hand, his attainments as an artist being of invaluable assistance to him. He is survived by his wife of Washington, D. C., his brother, George W. Blackburn of New Paris, and his sisters, Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. E. R. C. Blackburn, of Alum Bank, preceded him to the grave within a few years.

HOME TEAM WINS

Score 5-2 in Interesting Game With Centerville.

Last Friday the home team defeated the Centerville nine in an interesting game by the score 5-2. In the first inning Bedford scored two of their five runs and from that time it looked like anybody's game, but the team played like veterans and pulled themselves out of the hole. Baylor pitched a great game. Below we show him in one of his characteristic pitching positions.

The bond of Franklin Corle, Tax Collector of Union Township, in the sum of $3,000, with J. M. Imier and J. D. Whysong as sureties, was filed and approved.

The Associate Judges met on Thursday but no matters of business were presented to them for action.

To Settle Estate

Ira R. Bingham of New Castle, who has been an engineer on the B. & O. R. R. for the past ten years, visited his brother, E. Preston Bingham, of Friend's Cove the past week. Mr. Bingham returned home on Monday, the 19th, taking his brother, E. Preston Bingham, with him to settle the estate of their father, who died very suddenly last November of heart trouble.

William Bingham, formerly a resident of this county, was born and raised in Friend's Cove where he spent the first 40 years of his life. At that age he moved to Ohio in 1855 and bought a farm on which he lived 26 years, being 66 years, four months and 18 days of age. Mr. Bingham raised ten children, all of whom are living and well-to-do.

May Build Foot Bridges

On Monday Governor Tener signed the bill passed at the recent session of the Legislature, authorizing County Commissioners to erect foot bridges in lieu of wagon bridges when such bridges will accommodate the public.

This removes the last obstacle, if any existed, to the erection of the Juliana Street bridge across the Raystown branch from the Grand Central Hotel to the P. R. R. station.

No Compensation Provided

He says that while the new School Code has provided for the election of Assistant County Superintendents the general appropriation bill contains no appropriation for paying their salaries and the defect cannot be corrected until the next Legislature meets, two years hence.

Bedford County was to have an assistant to Superintendent Barkman because of the decision of the Attorney General' office the place will remain vacant.

PROF. DAVID EMMERT

Artist, Teacher and Philanthropist Dead.

Prof. David Emmert, artist, teacher and philanthropist, after a long period of constant suffering passed on Wednesday to his well-earned reward.

gerstown, Md., September 6, 1854. gersstown, Md., September 6, 1854. His early life was spent on a farm which he left at the age of eighteen to learn the trade of pattern maker with the Frick Manufacturing Company of Waynesboro. He left there after nearly four years to engage in the educational work of what is now Juniata College, at Huntingdon. With this institution Prof. Emmert has been connected in an official capacity since 1877. He was a natural artist as well as an enthusiastic lover of nature and he had the faculty of inspiring his students with much of his own unbounded love of the beautiful.

His work as a teacher was interrupted at two definite periods by the child-rescue work which lay nearest to his heart. In 1884 he was made a trustee of Juniata College and his practical wisdom continued to manifest itself in aiding the material development of the institution.

Another evidence of an unusually practical turn of mind associated with the artistic temperament, is shown in the fact that he was associated with J. C. Blair in the beginning of his business, and it was David Emmert who drew the design and made the cut for the very first of the now famous "Keystone" tablet.

In 1901 he published "Reminiscences of Juniata College," an interesting volume giving the story of the first quarter of a century of the institution, written in a most pleasing style and fitted with most interesting illustrations by the author himself.

This book not only tells of the development of Juniata College but shows how closely related to it was the movement which resulted in the founding of the "Home for Orphan and Friendless Children" in 1881, which was the actual beginning of the work here and elsewhere to which Prof. Emmert gave the best of his thought and life.

In 1883 through his efforts a similar Home was developed in Hagerstown, Md., of which he was superintendent for a number of years and which has been unusually successful not only in the service rendered but in winning the appreciation of the community where it is located.

A year or two later a Home was started in Chambersburg on the plan of the Hagerstown Home, due to Prof. Emmert's personal efforts in interesting the citizens in the sad state of the Alms House children.

For thirty years in a quiet way amidst much discouragement, and while carrying many other burdens, this modest man has gone back and forth through the states of Pennsylvania and Maryland in the interest of little children, supporting himself much of the time, and everywhere today there are young men and women in honorable vocations, some of them in places of distinction, who trace up and call him blessed.

And yet the idea of his work has not been the establishment of orphan homes. That which was like Dr. J. M. D. Sollenberger of the Pennsylvania Children's Aid Society and Dr. G. L. Jones of the Maryland Children's Aid Society have referred to as the "Huntingdon idea" implies that the Orphanas Home shall be but a temporary home for the child that is destitute for life in a real home. When David Emmert felt at his post he was engaged in raising a fund of twenty-five thousand dollars to endow the supervision of the children who had been placed out in homes. The "Huntingdon idea" is his movement. He believed in rearing children in a normal environment and so he measured the success of his work not by the number of children he could gather into an institution but by the number he could place out in well-selected families. In recent years the nature and real significance of his quiet work for children had come to the notice of the leading workers in this field and it is much to be regretted that his consecrated service had to cease just when it was being most appreciated and when his fertile brain and willing hands had found their largest field of usefulness.

Prof. Emmert is survived by his wife and three sons, Lewis L., D. Scheller and Calus E. The two older sons have imbibed something of the father's spirit in philanthropic work and the Board of Directors of the Huntingdon Orphans' Home, recently reorganized as the Juniata Valley Children's Aid Society, has appointed Lewis Emmert as successor to his father since the latter has been incapacitated. It is fortunate that the work so well begun falls thus into the hands of one who by inheritance, training and interest is most competent to carry it forward in accordance with the noble ideals of him who began and carried it on amid so many trials and discouragements.

Child's Lucky Escape

While in Hyndman Lewis Shaffer's horse was tied to a post in front of Bruce Hite's residence a few days ago, a child of Mahlon Evans, between three and four years of age, got in the buggy and hit the horse with a whip, causing it to break loose and run away, the little girl bouncing from one side to the other. The horse was stopped on Market street by H. H. Deane, who knew how to manage the runaway. When the child was lifted from the buggy it was very much excited but thought it had a very fine "go-by-by."

RAISING THE MAINE

Top of the Ill-Fated Vessel Now Visible

BARNACLES COVER DECK

Source of the Explosion that Wrecked the Magnificent Vessel Not Yet Determined.

(Special Correspondence.)

Havana, Cuba, June 17.—For the first time since that sunny February 15th, thirteen years and four months ago, the decks of the Maine felt the warm rays of the sun upon them. Day before yesterday, when the water was lowered in the cofferdam surrounding the wreck of the destroyed battleship sufficiently to bring the decks, or what remained of them, above the surface of the water which had so long eddied above them.

But it was a very different appearing deck from that on which the white uniformed officers paraded, where every detail of the brass work was highly polished and every appointment bespoke the highest discipline and pride. What we see today is but the semblance of a ship, and even where it is not twisted into frightful contortions, the growth of barnacles stands out all over it like an unsightly eruption and the remnant of that glorious vessel appears.

as to just as much wreckage as the sunken slaver or the blockade runner of the past century.

The forward part of the deck is still submerged, but beneath the water one can see the twisted mass of broken steel hairy with green moss.

The after deck, including that portion of the deck which covered the motive power of the vessel, is bare, as also is a part immediately forward of the engine room section, but this latter part of the deck reared itself upward in a grotesque and massive jagged outline when the explosion destroyed the ship. That great forward turret, which was a part of this portion of the deck has disappeared altogether. The top of it was found

TIPPING IN FRANCE.

If One Doesn't Pay Up, Then Life Is Made a Burden.

Why do we pay pourboires in France? Simply because if we didn't life wouldn't be worth living. Here is what happens to the man who gives no tip to the waiter: After a cognac and eau-de-seltz he summoned the garcon and gave him the exact price of his consumption. Then he rose to go, but before he had time to leave the cafe the waiter tripped over a stool and emptied on to the nontipper's handsome fur coat a glass of sticky sirup which he was carrying to another customer. The clumsy waiter begged a thousand pardons and immediately made things worse by seizing a greasy cloth and rubbing the sirupy substance into the coat. Suppose a tenant does not tip his concierge. What is the result? This—that he or she brings up the letters at all hours except when they arrive; that callers are told you are not at home when as a matter of fact you are waiting for them. If you grease the porter's hand from time to time there will never be any difficulty in allowing the tradesman to go up to your flat. But as soon as the tips are stopped a host of irritating regulations you never heard of will be enforced to prevent the grocer's and the butcher's boys taking up your orders, and everything will be done to make your life a burden.

Your servants may go out every night in the week and all night, but if they tip the concierge with your own coat or wine you will never know it. When it is not the concierge or the servants that make your existence unbearable it is the blanchisseuse, who brings home collars that don't belong to you, somebody else's pajamas and ragged edged handkerchiefs. But the tip makes all these annoyances vanish.—London Globe.

FEATHERED TYRANTS.

All the Fowls of the Air Dread the Muscicapa Birds.

Police work is the strangest of the work done in the world of birds. In France and central Europe the muscicapa birds police the air, posted on telegraph wires. Black, with heads decorated with orange fillets, these notable flycatchers are dreaded by the brigands of the air. Eagles, falcons and all the feathered strong men of the ether shrink from an encounter with this tyrant. When the tyrant cannot find wires to perch on he perches on a pole. When stationed on a prairie or a pasture he perches upon the back of an ox. He lives by hunting insects and attacks all birds, even the strongest, using beak and claws in the unequal struggle. All the fowls of the air fear the police bird, and even the most active pillagers of the nests feign honesty when under the sharp eye of the Muscicapa tyrannus.

In winter the tyrant takes possession of the warm shelters prized by birds. In spring, when the young are twittering in the nests, the tyrant turns "thief" and sows terror among friends and enemies alike. Even the sparrows banded to fall upon a field fly away when they see the black coat and orange fillet of the "policeman." The tyrant holds his power by his audacity. All animals yield to the influence of courage, a quality specially tenuous in birds. The tyrant bird is small, but his attitude commands respect.—Harper's Weekly

ARE YOU DEAF?

Cataract is Probably the Cause—Get Rid of the Cause.

If you have cataract and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once. It's a pretty sure sign that cataract is spreading and is making its way through the Eustachian tubes that lead from the nose to the ears.

When cataract gets to the ears partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go to F. W. Jordan today and get a HYOMEL outfit and drive out cataract.

To cure cataract HYOMEL should be breathed through a pocket inhaler for a few minutes, four or five times a day. Just pour a few drops into the hand rubber inhaler and breathe it.

It kills the germs, soothes the irritation, heals the inflammation, stops hawking, sneezing and sniffing.

HYOMEL keeps the throat free from mucus and prevents crusts in the nose.

The complete HYOMEL outfit which includes the little indestructible hand rubber inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEL and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00. Separate bottles of HYOMEL cost 50 cents at F. W. Jordan's and druggists everywhere, on money back plan.

Showing the Two Thrones to be Used for the Coronation.

Coronation of King George V

Quaint Mediaeval Ceremonies Mark His Formal Investiture With the Emblems of Kingly Power

THE coronation order occupies a unique position among English services. While its central portions, the anointing of the king and his investiture with the ensigns of kingly power remain necessarily unchanged, no other service has undergone so much revision in details, and none reflects in so many curious ways the ideas of the language of different periods of English history.

There are 20 sections in the service, beginning with the Preparation. It is there enjoined in the rubric: "In the morning upon the day of the Coronation early, care is to be taken that the Ampulla be filled with oil, and, together with the Spoon, be laid ready upon the Altar in the Abby Church."

The Archbishop's and Bishops' procession will be waiting outside the Abbey, and as their majesties enter they will be greeted by the singing of the anthem, "I Was Glad When They Said Unto Me." Before the anthem is concluded the King and Queen will have passed from the great west doors through the choir to the theater—the technical name for the portion of the Cathedral arranged for the chief events in the coronation—and on to their thrones.

THE RECOGNITION.

After the King and Queen's private prayers there follows the recognition by the people. This is expressed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, who is the chief celebrant, accompanied by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Great

Chamberlain, Lord High Constable and Earl Marshal, preceded by the Garter King of Arms. These are to go to the four sides of the theater and the Archbishop will say, "with a loud voice: 'Sirs, I here present unto you King George, the undoubted king of this realm; wherefore all you who are come this day to do your homage and service. Are you willing to do the same?'"

To this the people are to respond with shouts of "God Save King George!" and the trumpets will sound.

A significant act follows: Bible, Paten and chalice are to be placed on the altar. So also the regalia, which is delivered to the Archbishop, who will pass it to the Dean of Westminster, by whom the final act of laying the royal emblems on the altar is to be performed.

SOLEMN QUESTIONS.

For the sermon the King "shall put on his cap of crimson velvet turned up with ermine, and so continue to the end of it. On the north side of the altar shall sit the Archbishop in a purple velvet chair, and the other bishops along the north side of the wall betwixt him and the altar.

The sermon ended, the service again assumes a personal note, and provision is made for the tendering of three solemn questions to His Majesty by the Archbishop. These concern constitutional government, the execution of "law and justice in mercy," maintenance of the "Protestant reformed religion established by law" and the settlement of the Church of England.

Then on the Bible which was recently presented to the King for the purpose he lays his right hand and says:

"The things which I have herebefore promised I will perform and keep. So help me God."

Then the King shall kiss the book and sign the oath.

The anointing follows, on the crown of the head, on the breast, and on the palms of both hands. The King then kneeling, the Archbishop pronounces a blessing over him. The presenting of the spurs and sword, and the girding and oblation of the sword, the investing with the armill and royal robe and the delivery of the orb, the investiture per annulum et baculum follows.

THE SUPREME ACT.

The previous investiture pales in importance to that which now takes place. This is the supreme act of crowning, which is preceded by a solemn prayer, by the Archbishop while the regal emblem lies before him on the altar. Inserted as a side note in the prayer are the quaint words used on many previous occasions, "Here the Queen Mary in Coronation Robes.

King must be put in mind to bow his head." For the crowning the King is seated in the coronation chair and the rubric enjoins:

"The Dean of Westminster shall bring the crown, and the Archbishop taking it of him shall reverently put it upon the King's head. At the sight whereof the people, with loud and repeated shouts, shall cry: 'God save the King; the peers and the kings of arms shall put on their coronets; and the trumpets shall sound, and by a signal given, the great guns at the tower shall be shot off.'"

After the acclamation that follows the act of crowning the Archbishop utters a solemn benediction, and there is a still further benediction after the Bible has been presented to His Majesty.

All the emblems of royal and imperial dignity having been bestowed upon His Majesty, he is to take his seat on the throne and receive from his lieges, the Prince of Wales and the princes of blood royal included, their acts of homage. The Primate comes first, then the Heir Apparent, who, taking off his coronet, shall kneel before His Majesty's knee, saying: "I do become your liege man of life and limb and of earth's worship, and faith and truth I will bear unto you, to live and die, against all manner of folks. So help me God."

The peers follow with the same phalacology.

"LONG LIVE THE KING."

The great and representative congregation in the Abbey who cannot perform homage in the manner thus indicated have their share when the homage is ended. The roll of the drums and the shrill blast of the trumpets will then be heard, and the vast assembly will break out into shouts: "God save King George!"

"Long live King George!"

Stripped of all their regal pomp, both King and Queen will descend from their thrones and go to the steps of the altar, where they shall kneel for the holy communion. At the conclusion both their majesties will resume their crowns and scepters and repair to their thrones. Thus seated, the concluding passages of the service will proceed and the long order of service close with the Te Deum sung by the choir.

The official order then concludes:

"The King shall then be disrobed of his royal robe of state, and, arrayed in his robe of purple velvet and wearing his imperial crown, shall then receive in his left hand the orb from the Archbishop. Then their majesties will proceed through the choir to the west door of the church, in the same way as they came, wearing their crowns."

His Majesty's Theater.

The gala performance at His Majesty's theater, during coronation week, promises to be a brilliant affair. The program is being arranged by Sir Herbert Tree and Mr. Arthur Boucher, and will include a series of pieces in which Sir Charles Wyndham, Miss Ellen Terry, Sir John Hare and all the leading actors and actresses of the day will appear.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, so one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weakness and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

Another New Magazine

The Monthly Magazine Section which has been going free with The Pittsburgh Sunday Dispatch on the second Sunday of each month has proved such a success that on Sunday, June 25, another magazine, a sort of companion piece, will be started by The Dispatch. It will be called the Family Magazine Section, and will be published on the fourth Sunday of every month. This will give Dispatch readers two magazines a month—not the flimsy weekly affairs so prevalent, but genuine monthly magazines, filled with the best literature that brains and money can produce. Richard Harding Davis, Martha McCullough Williams and such lights will be contributors to the first number of the Family Magazine Section. A competition department, open to all readers, will be one of the attractions of the new publication sure to create a sensation. Remember, these two magazines a month (one on the second Sunday and the other the fourth Sunday) go absolutely free with The Sunday Dispatch, which entirely aside from the magazines is the biggest, best and brightest Sunday newspaper published. If you are not already a subscriber, order at once from your news agent and get a free copy of the Family Magazine with your paper next Sunday, June 25.

In Praise of Ice Cream.

Sunday dinner without ice cream is an imposition on the whole family. Say, brother, did you ever notice the expression of the faces of the children when they were ready for ice cream, and canned peaches were brought in? There is a chance for mutiny and rebellion right there. When the family is feeling grouchy just serve them vanilla ice cream and pour hot thick chocolate over the ice cream. Then life is worth living.

No Advancement.

Experts in Brazilian agriculture unite in affirming that methods of growing tobacco, gathering the crop and curing it have changed little, if at all, since the days of the early colonist, two centuries ago. Practically nowhere is there any idea of tilling the soil and cultivating the crop with an instrument more modern than the spade.

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." Ed D. Heckerman.

Cashy Advertising.

A Dutchman had a cart from which he peddled wienerwurst sausages. One day he saw on a bake wagon: "You need a biscuit." It struck him as a good advertisement, so he painted on his cart, "You need a biscuit, but you need a wiener wurst."

Unexpected Guests

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.

PRICELESS GEMS IN CROWN

Gorgeous Mass of Jewels Includes 2,818 Diamonds and 297 Pearls of Purest Water.

"The grandeur of the whole thing is unimaginable, reminding one of the stories of one's childhood and the jewels massed in heaps waiting the first-come on the floor of Aladdin's cave." It is thus that one who has been privileged to make a close inspection of the late King Edward's crown describes that important item in the crown jewels; and some idea of the magnificence of the crown which will be worn by King George at the coronation may be gathered from the fact that to the 2,818 diamonds, 297 pearls, besides many other jewels, which formed King Edward's crown, will be added two sapphires, fifty-six brilliants, and fifty-two rose diamonds. The design of King George's crown will be practically the same as that of King Edward, which in turn was a replica of the crown worn by Queen Victoria at her coronation in 1838. The royal crowns, however, are remade for each coronation. This is necessary, of course, on account of the difference in the sizes of the heads of the respective monarchs.

First Coronation Order.

It is historically interesting to note that the first coronation order was printed from a Rouen manuscript, but it is also found in a manuscript said to be the pontifical of Egbert, archbishop of York from 753 to 766. A striking conservatism has characterized the coronation services of all British sovereigns. In spite of civil wars and the religious confusion of the sixteenth century, the service embodied in the Liber Regalis—remained the same from 1307 till 1685, when it was altered to suit the religious views of James II. At the coronation of William and Mary considerable changes were made so as to render it impossible for any Roman Catholic to be crowned king of England.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND
Special Ambassador of United States at Coronation.

Brilliant Entertainments.

There will be a vast number of brilliant entertainments in connection with the coronation, at many of which royal personages will be present. John Hays Hammond, the special ambassador of President Taft at the coronation, will give a great fancy dress ball. The duke and duchess of Devonshire will also give a ball, in connection with the coronation, and the duchess of Northumberland a garden party at Syon House, her historic home in the suburbs, where Charles II. held gay and festive court while the plague was raging in London. The foreign royalties will also attend at least one entertainment given by the diplomatic representatives of their respective countries.

Will Wear George IV's Mantle.

The imperial mantle or pall worn by King George IV. will be worn by King George V. at his coronation. After the coronation of King George IV. the robe became the property of the lord great chamberlain, and thus passed into private hands. It was offered, as an act of homage, by its owner, to the king, who accepted the gift. The robe is in a perfect state of preservation.

Roses for the Coronation.

One firm in Hertfordshire planted 50,000 coronation rose trees, all timed to bloom in June. They are being grown in all sorts of designs. One of these is a statue of the king, consisting of about 1,500 roses.

Coronation Chair and Its History

Tradition Carries Story of "The Stone of Destiny" Back to Early Bible Times

THE story of the chair in which King George V. will be crowned at Westminster Abbey is strangely interesting. Its authentic history carries us back to the time when Scotland had her own kings, and Scone was at once her Windsor and her coronation Westminster Abbey.

Among other relics which it contains is a bed used by James VI. and another with hangings of flowered crimson velvet, said to have been worked by Mary Stuart during her imprisonment in Lochleven Castle. The gallery, 160 feet long, occupies the place of the old Coronation Hall, where Charles II. was crowned in 1651. With the ancient Abbey of Scone are bound up some of the most interesting events in Scottish history; but today we think of it specially as the shrine where was long preserved the famous so-called "Stone of Destiny," which forms a part of the British coronation chair. It is this curiously unique treasure, chiefly, which gives a sort of uncanny romance to the chair.

The really authentic history of the stone would not be admitted by serious and questioning antiquaries to go back further than the date, about 834 A. D., when it was first found at Scone. But a long persisting legend or tradition brings it down from early Bible times. According to this view, it was the veritable pillow upon which the patriarch Jacob rested his head at Luz when he had his beautiful vision of the ladder that reached to Heaven. In this mythical account the stone is next traced to the possession of Gathelus, the son of Cerops, King of Athens, who entered into the service of one of the Pharaohs, and married his daughter Scotia, from whom Scotland is said to derive its name. Gathelus brought it from Syria to Egypt; and, to escape an impending plague, he is said to have sailed from the Nile, by the advice of Moses, with his wife and the precious stone, and landed on the coast of Spain. Afterwards he sent the stone to Ireland under the care of his son, who invaded the island, and by whom it was set up on Tara Hill. There it was used as the Irish coronation stone for many ages.

USED IN IRELAND.

This brings us to at least the fringes of recorded secular history, when facts begin to conflict less with legend. It seems tolerably clear that the stone was really used as a sort of royal chair in Ireland, where, we are told, it was known as "Lia Fail," or the stone of fate. From Ireland it is supposed to have been once more carried to Spain (by Cathel, king of the Scots, it is said); but the tradition is that it was brought back to Ireland by Simon Brech, leader of a band of Scots, somewhere about 700 B. C. It remained undisturbed until Fergus Mor, probably a descendant of Simon Brech, was driven out of Ireland in 503 B. C. Fergus led the Dalriadic Scots to the shores of Argyll, and having brought the stone with him it was used for his coronation at Dunstaffnage. Here, as we read, it remained till about 834 A. D., when Kenneth Macalpine brought it to "the royal city of Scone," having fixed on Scone as his capital, because in the neighborhood he had just fought and won the last decisive battle with the ancient Picts.

All this is open to more or less doubt. But the stone was at least found at Scone, and it gave a sort of royal grandeur to Scone, and led all the Scottish princes to repair thither to be crowned on it. This is actual, sober fact. However, we may explain the circumstance, it had acquired a sacred character as influencing the destinies of the Scottish nation. One rhyme ran:—

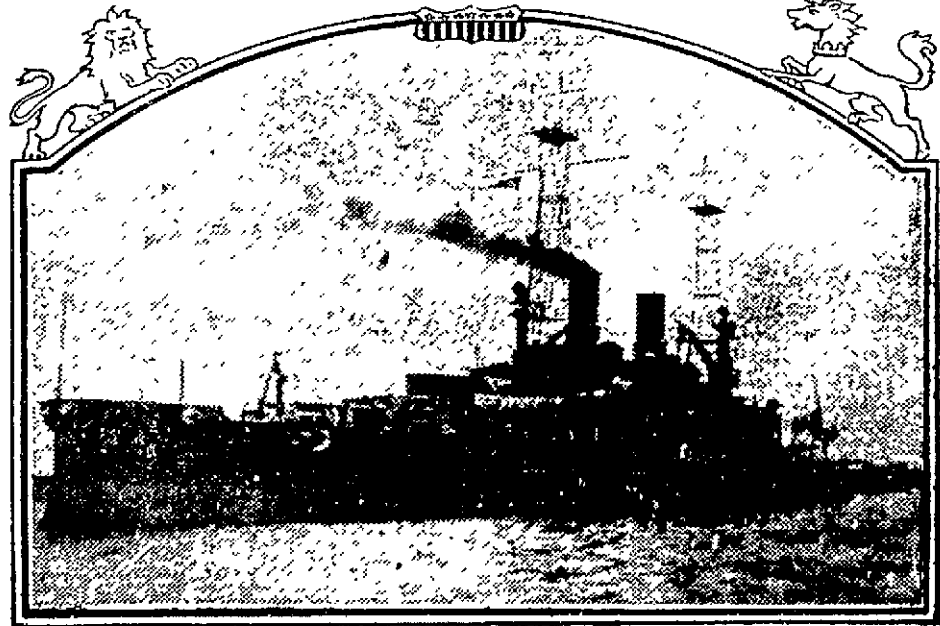

"Unless the fates are faithless grown,
And prophet's voice be vain,
Where'er is found this ancient stone,
The Scottish race shall reign."
It was averred by the ancient Scots that the stone gave forth musical sounds when the rightful ruler seated himself on it, but remained mute when a usurper was crowned.

CARRIED TO ENGLAND.

The famous Stone of Destiny remained at Scone until the time of Edward I. John Balliol was the last Scottish King crowned on it, and it is significant that it appears in his great seal, embedded in what was then known as the "King's Stool." As everybody knows, Balliol was defeated by Edward I. at Dunbar in 1296, and it was then that Edward carried the stone, along with the Scottish regalia, to England. Since that time it has remained at Westminster Abbey, and every English monarch has been crowned on it. The chair of which it forms a part is made of hard wood, gayly painted. Under the seat is a board supported by four lions, and on this board the Stone of Destiny rests. The Stone had been carved, gilded and painted, but these decorations have entirely disappeared. In modern coronations it is always covered with a cloth of gold. It has been asserted that the stone is of meteoric origin, but this is incorrect. It is simply a block of red sandstone containing an unusual proportion of iron. Its dimensions are: 2 ft. 2 in. long, 1 ft. 4 in. broad, and 10½ in. thick.

Notwithstanding its removal, the prestige of Scone continued to be regarded in later years. Robert the Bruce and his son David, Robert II., James I., and, lastly, Charles II., all chose Scone for their coronations. The Scottish people are very distressed about the loss of the stone. They looked upon its conveyance to England as a national humiliation, and in the treaty concluded between England and Scotland in 1328 its return was made an essential condition. Edward III. ordered that it should be sent back, but for some unknown reason his order was not obeyed.

ANOTHER GREAT MAGAZINE

Which Will Cost You Nothing—Free With North American.

The North American announces that another high-class magazine is to be given free. It will be called the Family Magazine. It will be the same size and general appearance as the Monthly Magazine which has been such a popular feature of the Sunday North American for several months. The Monthly Magazine will continue to be given free with The North American of the second Sunday of each month. The Family Magazine will be given free with The North American of the fourth Sunday of each month, beginning with next Sunday, June 25.

The Family Magazine, as indicated by its name, is planned with an especial view to appeal to every element in the family circle.

One of the departments of the magazine will be "Women Who Count." This will be devoted to women of the day who are doing notable things. Another, "After School," makes suggestions of all sorts for the entertainment and instruction of boys and girls. "New Wrinkles" is a third department, which is for the exchange of ideas. Contributions to all three departments are invited, $2 being paid for each item accepted.

A fourth department is "The Arena." Every month $50 in prizes will be offered for the competitions in this department. This month it is to be a hat-trimming contest.

The magazine will be made up in general of high-class stories and articles of interest. The first story in the initial number is "The Lost House," by Richard Harding Davis. It is in Mr. Davis' best manner, full of stirring action, tense situations and the artistic portrayal of manners that is the chief ornament of Mr. Davis' writings. The story has to do with an American newspaper man in London, a young Kentucky beauty incarcerated by her uncle, who has designs on her fortune and her life, mysterious messages that gave a clue to the situation, and the efforts of the young man to rescue a girl he had never seen and of whose existence he had no assurance. This story is typical of the fiction which will form the largest part of the great new magazine.

Wouldn't our great-grandma giggle at her at horses sporting straw sunshades in the hot season?

Granddad decorated his bald top with green cabbage leaf for a sunstroke protector and rigged up old Fan and Ben Gray with leafy boughs to keep off flies and skeeters. That beats makin' off horses' tails and manes for style and lettin' the pests eat em up. But don't bother Inventin' Biddy bonnets. Granddad's green bough is good enough sunshade for Biddy.

Just look at the pictures—the one looks cool and contented in that beautiful shady orchard, the other roasting in the glaring sun, with no refuge for relief. A wooden man can tell which flock will turn out better.

Yet some fellows who provide no protection for poultry wonder why many of their chicks and ducklings die and others do not reach a profitable maturity.

allowing fowls to balance their own ration; likewise we afford facilities for sun and shade and let old and young stock take as much of each as necessary.

Sun is necessary for fowls. They love it. Watch them spread their wings and tails, loosen their plumage and incline their bodies to catch the virtue of every ray. It is warmth and a health tonic to a certain limit. Then it's a roast, and prostration, sunstroke, paralysis, death, follow. Many flocks are prisoners at the stake. The extreme cruelty of it is they can't escape. You see this where there is no shade in the runs, where low roofed houses afford no relief by day or night, where crated poultry stands in the scorching sun.

But this is all so easily remedied and may be so beautifully done.

houses and runs, by building houses capable of ventilation, by erecting artificial shade where necessary.

While we are apt to get hit by a backache when we attempt to control the weather we can so modify matters in the hot season that our fowls may have cool food, cool water and cool retreats, and they must have them to insure success.

An Interval

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"It's queer how little difference ten years will make in the look of persons when you're with 'em all the time and how much difference it makes when you don't see 'em. And if you don't see 'em for a matter of twenty year, why, you don't know 'em at all."

The words were spoken by Joshua Sparks to his friend, Mahulda Stiecker. "Yes, Mr. Sparks, and that's the reason I don't take stock in the idea that love is anything more'n livin' together."

"I knew of a case of that kind once. It came under my own observation. You know Martha Wrinkles, don't you?"

"Yes, I know her; she's a skinny old maid."

"Waal, when Martha was a gal she was as purty as any on 'em. I was a leetle soft on her myself then. But I didn't have no chance. She was sot on Ben Higgins, as fine a lookin' young man as ever handled a pitchfork. And Ben was sot on her. They was the lovenest couple I ever see. They was goin' to git married when Ben was tuk sick. He was sick a long while, and when he got well the doctor said he'd better go off somewhere else to git a change of air."

"Ben, he went to Colorado, where the air is dry and pure. He tuk a picture of Martha with him, and they both said their love was the undyin' kind. It didn't matter how long they might be separated, neither of 'em would marry any one else, and they would marry each other when they come together ag'in."

"Ben was twenty when he went away and Martha was nineteen. The separation was longer than either of 'em had any idea of when they parted. Ben was five years gittin' back his health. By that time he thort he'd come to an age when he'd like to have a little somepin laid up before he got married. So he worked and worked, but somehow riches didn't come. It was twenty-one years before he got back."

"Neither he nor Martha was much at writin', even when he went away. First off they wrote once a month, then once a year, and after that it was once in five years. But they was true to each other all these years."

"Ben was forty-two years old when he come back. He come to me first before seein' Martha at all. I didn't know him. Some men looks purty young at forty-two, and some looks purty old. Ben was one of the old lookin' kind. He wore specs, his head was smooth as a billiard ball, and what hair there was on the sides was grizzly gray."

"Don't y'know me, Josh?" he said. "I'm Ben Higgins."

"Waal, to be perlit I told him I'd had trouble with my eyes."

"He told me that he'd come home to marry Martha. He'd made some money during the last few years and was lookin' forward to the realization of the dream of his life. He tuk the picture of Martha out of his pocket and showed it to me. My sakes, how far away it seemed! There sat a purty young gal that I'd known twenty years before. Now she was gray in the front of her head, and the wrinkles she's got now was beginnin' to spread over her face and neck and arms and hands. I guess it makes a woman sour lookin' to wait for a lover. Anyway, she looked just as if she could bite off a tenpenny nail."

"Ben," says I, "Martha's changed a bit since that was taken."

"Mebbe," he said, "she might have changed somewhat. I'm goin' to see her tonight, and I'll see how much she's altered."

"Come round to my house to supper," I said. "You can go to see Martha afterward."

"All right," he answered; "I will."

"I asked Martha to come to supper, not tellin' her she was to meet her old lover. I wanted to see 'em when they first saw each other. I didn't go to no trouble of introducin' 'em, as city folks do. Martha she sot at one end of the table by my wife, and Ben sot by me, the yankers between. Consequence was that Ben and Martha didn't have nothin' to say to each other. Fact is they didn't appear to take no interest into each other."

When Ben and I got up from the table I asked him if he wouldn't like to go out and look at the stock. He said he would, and we went to the barn."

"After awhile Ben said he guessed he'd go and see his old love. Then I told him Martha had been settin' at the other end of the table at supper."

"You ought to see the way he looked at me. There was a pained expression, as though he had built a beautiful structure over him away up into the sky and it had collapsed and come down on his head. The first thing he said was:

"Did she know who I was?"

"No, but my wife has told her by this time."

"I saw he'd better not go to see Martha right off, and I told him so. He agreed with me. When my wife told Martha that she had set at the same table with her old lover she acted about the same way as Ben did. She didn't go home that evenin', fearin' he would go to see her."

"Ben stayed around here for awhile. He and Martha used to meet once in awhile, but they pertended not to know each other for what they was when young. Bimeby Ben went back to Colorado, and Martha said she could breathe free once more."

Lesson XIII.—Second Quarter, For June 25, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, a Comprehensive Quarterly Review—Golden Text, Mic. vi, 8—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—Naaman healed, II Kings v, 1-14. Golden Text, Isa. xiv, 22, "Look unto me and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth, for I am God, and there is none else." Leprosy, a peculiar type of sin and sinners. Great sinners may be great in their own sight and in the esteem of others, but in God's sight lost. All can be saved if willing to submit to God and His way. Money cannot buy it.

LESSON II.—Elisha's heavenly defenders, II Kings vi, 8-17. Golden Text, Ps. xci, 11, "For He shall give His angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways." God knows all our ways and our going out and coming in, and also our thoughts (Ps. cxxxix and Ezek. xi, 5). If God be for us, who can be against us? God with us is more than all who can be against us. Opened eyes to see the unseen is our great need. He can do it.

LESSON III.—Joash, the boy king, II Kings x, 9-20. Golden Text, Ps. cxix, 2, "Blessed are they that keep His testimonies and that seek Him with the whole heart." Ten times in this chapter we find the house of the Lord, or the temple of the Lord, or the Lord's people. God will take care of His chosen king, whether it be David or Joash or His Messiah.

LESSON IV.—The temple repaired, II Kings xii, 4-15. Golden Text, I Chron. xxix, 9, "Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly." A chest beside the altar to receive the willing offerings of the people was the method of obtaining money which the Lord blessed. At least twelve times in this chapter the expression "the house of the Lord" occurs. Devotion to the Lord because of His sacrifice will bring all needed funds.

LESSON V.—God's pity for the heathen, Jonah iii, 5 to iv, 11. Golden Text, Matt. xxvii, 19, "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations." Jesus Christ believed the story of Jonah and those who question it question the veracity of Jesus (Matt. xii, 39-41). Jonah was willing that the people of Nineveh should perish; the Lord is not willing that any should perish (I Pet. iii, 9). Note the things which God prepared and used—a wind, a fish, a worm, a gourd, and even rebellious Jonah.

LESSON VI.—Uzziah, humbled, II Chron. xxvi, 8-21. Golden Text, Prov. xvi, 18, "Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." Some people do right only as long as they have a strong visible human helper. The devil always tempts to pride and self sufficiency, but we can only be strong in the Lord, and that only as we know our own weakness, for His strength is made perfect in weakness.

LESSON VII.—Isaiah's call to service, Isa. vi, Golden Text, Isa. vi, 8, "I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me." A vision of a man on the throne, the God man, alive forevermore, is what we all need (Ezek. i, 26-28). This works conviction of sin and self abhorrence; then follows forgiveness of sins, and then a readiness for service, as He may will.

LESSON VIII.—Song of the vineyard, Isa. v, 1-12. Golden Text, Isa. v, 22, "Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink." Strong drink acts upon the body as pride does on the soul, the former causing a beastly drunkenness and the latter the drunkenness of Isa. xxix, 9-13. Only by the blood of Jesus Christ can we be saved from either, and only as filled with the spirit can we bear fruit.

LESSON IX.—Universal peace, Mic. iv, 1-8. Golden Text, Mic. iv, 3, "Nations shall not lift up a sword against nation; neither shall they learn war any more." This great saying is also found in Isa. ii, 4, and it shall be fulfilled when He who came as a babe to Bethlehem shall at His coming again in glory be Ruler in Israel (Mic. v, 2), not by peace conferences, nor by missions, nor by any present agencies, but only by Himself, at His second coming (Isa. xxiii, 1, 17).

LESSON X.—The promise of the Father, John xiv, 15-27. Golden Text, John xiv, 16, "I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another comforter, that He may abide with you forever." Only by the Holy Spirit can we know God in Christ or receive His word, and only when the Holy Spirit shall be poured upon Israel shall they have a true conviction of sin and welcome Jesus Christ as their Messiah.

LESSON XI.—Hezekiah's Passover, II Chron. xxx, 13-27. Golden Text, I Sam. xvi, 7, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." The great need of today is the zeal of a Hezekiah to cleanse the professing church from its filthiness and to turn it whole heartedly to the Lord.

LESSON XII.—The downfall of Sennacherib, II Kings xxi, 1-14. Golden Text, Prov. xxix, 1, "He that being often reproved hardeneth his neck shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy." As truly as judgment came on Israel so surely shall there be a fulfillment of II Thess. i, 7-10, and all similar predictions.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON

Denver, June 18.—Pastor Russell gave two public addresses here today, one of which we report. Many of Denver's prominent religious people were conspicuous in the large audience. Profound impressions were undoubtedly made. Speaking from the text, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, the whole earth shall be filled with Thy glory" (Revelation iv, 8) the speaker said:

Shakespeare tells of some "damned by faint praise!" We grasp his statement as implying that a faint praise is more injurious than silence. But as we look to ourselves and the remainder of the reputed four hundred millions of Christendom and their united tribute of praise to the Almighty Creator we are forced to admit that with many He is given "faint praise," while the vast majority positively blaspheme the Holy Name by most atrocious misrepresentations of the Divine character, which they claim to be His own revelation of a demoniacal plot for the eternal torture, in one way or another, of the thousands of millions brought into existence by His power and without their own consent.

There may be said to be three different theories prevalent in Christendom on the subject. They all have zealous, earnest, honest advocates. Each contradicts the other. Each claims to love God and to seek to serve and honor Him. Evidently, two at least of the three are wrong. It is our conviction that all three are in error. We believe that all three of them have fragments of the truth around which have crystallized distorting, slanderous, blasphemous errors. The upholders of these theories are so blinded and bewildered that they fail to discern that their praise and worship toward the Creator are defiled and converted into slanders and calumnies and blasphemies by their incrustations of falsehood.

Three General Views
All three of these views declare that the Almighty, with full power to have done otherwise, so created humanity that a child once born into the world can never die—he must live somewhere unceasingly—either in pain or in pleasure. By what authority any make these declarations we have never ascertained.

Surely it is a gross slander upon a God of infinite Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power to claim that He ever entrusted to poor, fallen, human parents the power to bring into existence sin-blighted and sin-disposed human creatures such as we see our race to be, and then made the happiness of their eternity dependent upon a superhuman resistance of the evils of their environment and of their depraved constitutions! This blasphemy against the Holy Name is common to nearly every creed of Christendom.

Our Catholic friends tell us that by Divine arrangement terrible purgatorial experiences await practically every member of our race, in the hope that, if righteously exercised thereby, after centuries of torture, an eternity of bliss will be gained. Is not this also a blasphemy against the Holy Name? Who can deny it? Who would not shudder to have such an awful crime of evil design charged against himself or against his earthly parents? Who that is begotten of the Holy Spirit is not pained even to think of such a charge being made against his Heavenly Father, "the God of all grace"? Surely such a theory is blasphemous, horrible.

But we have grown so accustomed to this blasphemy that it fails to prick the majority to the heart as it should. With all of our development of human sympathy and care for the sick and even for our wounded enemies on the battlefield, and with our precautions of modern times against criminal negligence which might lead to the destruction of human life by conflagration—with all of our fire apparatus and benevolent laws for the protection of the very humblest of our race, we have calmly and without protest charged against our great Creator, and indorsed it as our belief, either publicly or tacitly, that He would look upon a holocaust of millions with no fire brigade for their relief. Is not this blasphemy of the Holy Name?

Worse and Worse—Predestinated
Is it any wonder that in early life our childish hearts were filled with fear rather than with love toward our Creator and toward His Revelation, the Bible? Is it any wonder that it required all kinds of fighting with our common sense to believe, as we were taught we should, that God lovingly predestinated that all the families of earth should suffer eternally except a saintly handful—because He was pleased to have it so! because He foreordained that it must be so! because He made a great place called hell before He made the earth, and made it large enough to hold the entire human family! because He created fire-proof demons to inflict torture upon the poor unfortunate who were born in sin, shapen in iniquity, in sin conceived by their mothers, and many of them left without an opportunity of hearing of the "only name whereby they must be saved"—and that He wisely and with devilish intention laid up fuel enough to last to all eternity for the torture of His helpless creatures!

And are not such evil thought and presentations respecting our great Creator blasphemy? If not, pray tell me what would be blasphemy? Most assuredly I can think of nothing that could possibly enter the human mind or pass the human lips more blasphemous than this doctrine. And yet those who bow down before this creed number some of the ablest and most intelligent, most enlightened and most benevolent of our depraved, fallen race. How is this? How comes it that we have been so blinded as respects our own conduct and misbelief? The Scriptures answer that Satan has deceived us; he has put light for darkness and darkness for light.

Still Another Blasphemy
A considerable portion of thinking and Christian people will join with us in saying, Ah! surely Brother Calvin grievously erred and grievously misrepresented the God of Love when he taught the doctrine of the predestination of the wicked to eternal torture! Ah! say these Christian friends, our hearts rebel against that theory of Divine predestination. We claim that the Almighty is Love itself—that He is sympathetic with His creatures and is using every effort to avert the great calamity of eternal torture.

Ah! my friends, is not this still another form of blasphemy? If some of us blasphemed the Holy Name in representing our Heavenly Father as merciless, loveless, have we not in another way blasphemed that same Holy Name in declaring that He lacks the power and the wisdom to do the good which His loving heart would prompt? Do we worship a stupid and impotent God, one who blundered in the creation of our race, and who, for six thousand years, has been striving to rectify that error and all the while has been allowing thousands of millions of His creatures whom He loves to go down to an eternity of torture? Alas! it would be nearly as easy to worship an all-powerful and loveless God as to worship an all-loving but unwise and impotent God who foolishly, shifflily, brought thousands of millions of intelligent beings into existence only to cause them to suffer an eternity of agony through His incompetence.

Earth Full of God's Glory
Thank God! dear friends, for the glorious day in which we are living, with its electric light and other evidences that we are in the dawning of a New Age. Thank God! that in this day the electric lamp of truth is showing up the mistake of these blasphemous errors which have so defiled all the precious truths of God's Book for years, for centuries. Thank God that our Bible is becoming a new Book to those whose eyes of understanding are opening to the lengths and breadths and heights and depths of the love of God which it declares.

Now we are seeing that "the wages of sin is death"—not eternal torment nor Purgatory. Now we are seeing that Jesus met this death penalty as the Redeemer of our race from the power of the tomb. Now we are seeing that the salvation that God has promised will be brought to us at the second coming of Jesus and the establishment of his mediatorial kingdom for the blessing of all the families of the earth! Now we are seeing that the salvation provided is a resurrection of the dead—not merely an awakening from the tomb, but a complete uplift out of sin and degradation to the full perfection of human nature in the earthly likeness of the Creator.

Now we are seeing that this great blessing has been set apart by the Almighty as the work of the great Sabbath Day of a thousand years, in which "the last enemy to be destroyed is death." Now we are seeing that the whole earth is to be reclaimed from the curse and made to blossom as Eden—that the place of Jehovah's feet, His footstool, will be made glorious and in every way happyfying to all the willing and obedient, whom the great Messiah shall recover fully from sin and death. Now we are seeing that the intelligent rejectors of Divine Grace will not be tormented but, as it is written, "All the wicked will God destroy."

The Church Being Selected
Now we see that the free grace and glorious opportunity to human restitution will be ushered in with the Kingdom, but that preceding that glorious Epoch God is making a selection of a saintly class to be the Bride of Christ—"the Lamb's Wife." This explains why the darkness has been so long permitted—because God would test the "elect" by obliging them to walk by faith and not by sight—He would test them by obliging them to endure hardness as good soldiers—He would test them by requiring that they shall suffer for righteousness' sake and thus manifest their love of righteousness to a remarkable degree. Now we see that the faithful of these are to experience a change from earthly to heavenly conditions, in the First Resurrection, and that this change has its beginning in the Divine begetting of the Holy Spirit. Now we see that these, with the Redeemer, will constitute the Kingdom class which, invisible to men, will bind Satan for a thousand years and supplant his reign of darkness and sin by a reign of light and righteousness, helpful and uplifting to mankind.

"Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God"
We come now to our text: It declares that the time is coming when the whole earth shall be full of God's glory. Ah! glorious Day! Then the shadows of ignorance, superstition, misunderstanding and misrepresentation in respect to the Divine character will all see before the light of the knowledge of the glory of God—the appreciation of the Divine character as manifested in the Divine Plan to human salvation! Could this Scripture ever be fulfilled, could the Divine character ever be appreciated by intelligent, honest, just and loving hearts, if in any corner of the Universe there were such orgies and tor-

THIN HAIR ON TOP
If Parisian Sage, the hair grower that F. W. Jordan guarantees, will not cause hair to grow where the hair is thinning out, nothing on this earth will.

And we say to everybody, man, woman, young or old, you can have your money back if Parisian Sage isn't the best hair grower, hair saver, hair beautifier and dandruff cure on the market today.

It stops itching scalp and falling hair, and makes hair grow thick and abundantly, or money back. Fifty cents for a large bottle.

Parisian Sage makes the hair soft and brilliant and promotes growth. I gladly recommend it to everyone. —G. M. Emmons, Aubion House, Portland, Me., June 7, 1910.
